A Week That Shapes A Lifetime!

Yet Another Robbery??

For those who are attending Mountaineer Boys State Camp this week know how hectic each day can become. Some events borderline on ridiculous! The following event underlines how unusual situations can become.

Andrew Heike from Braxton Cottage was in the process of being arrested while visiting the Monroe Cottage for charges of poaching! During the process of being escorted by the sheriff to the holding jail, those present witnessed the Magistrate of Monroe an assaulting fashion with a toilet plunger in his position declaring everyone was being robbed.

Andrew Heike was aghast that the Magistrate wasn't being arrested and charged while he was and addressed the sheriff concerning this issue. The sheriff, some what amazed and slightly dazed by these events quickly addressed the situation and attempted to arrest the Magistrate for attempted robbery and confiscate his weapon which was the plunger.

Andrew took possession of the plunger weapon while the sheriff was distracted with his arresting of the Magistrate. Andrew's plan was to turn the weapon into the department as evidence but the department rejected the device and Andrew became stuck with the toilet plunger.

Eventually it was returned to the Monroe Cottage.

Supreme Loyalty

Today, Bryson of Braxton county was arrested with multiple charges including failing to appear in court and failing to follow road regulations. He was fined $200,000 or he could serve 3 hours in the prison. Braxton county responded to his charge almost immediately and rushed to the bank to secure a loan to pay for his bail. Unfortunately the bank was in a court case and could not offer Braxton county a loan. Although Bryson wasn't able to pay for his charges, he did learn that Braxton county had his back.

Bye-Bye Boys State

Today is the final day of Boys State. This means after spending countless hours with strangers from all over West Virginia it is time to leave. We have all done so many things this week whether you were passing laws in the House, getting elected governor, learning how to fight a fire, or just writing articles about this camp like me. Regardless of your job, I think it's safe to say we've all learned a lot about government, West Virginia, and most importantly, ourselves. I'm also sure we're all excited to go home and get to see our friends and family. As exciting as the end of camp may be, just remember to take this experience home with you. We've all experienced different things while attending this camp, and whether it was positive or negative, there is some sort of lesson that can be gathered from it. I know I've learned that people will clap for any reason they can and that there is always more you can learn about life. I think we all tend to walk through life thinking that there's a tiny bubble surrounding our reality and nothing happens outside of it. When we all arrived at Boys State on Sunday morning, I realized just how many schools and kids there were from all over the state. I also learned that being uncomfortable is the best way to learn. Comfort lacks growth and growth is a good thing. I've spent this entire week uncomfortable about one thing or another but it has made me aware of the things I'm good at and the things I need to work on. Hopefully everyone from this camp was able to grow from something we learned here. Maybe you got an idea of the career you're interested in, or you made a friend. Maybe you didn't have fun at all, but learned to appreciate the things you were missing while at Boys State. Regardless of the circumstances, it is always a good thing to experience something new.

EDITORIAL: TO WORK IN PRINT JOURNALISM

In the great state of Mountaineer Boys State rests the building that is used for Broadcast and Print Journalism. While working as Editor as part of the Print Journalism staff, it has allowed for many different great experiences, access to pieces of knowledge unknown to most citizens, and the friends I made along the way.

As editor, it is my job to ensure that all articles submitted to The Mountaineer meet the standards set up by the preceding members of staff. When reporters write these articles, they base it on information from all over the state. From prison breakouts to civil discourse. From fire hydrants to toilets. Whenever this stuff occurs, members of the staff are at the scene to gather information on the stories. Notes are taken, citizens are interviewed, and photos are shot. All this hard work is done to ensure that a paper is put out every morning. All of this of course cannot be done without the people behind it all.

The people behind The Mountaineer truly make it what it is. Each piece of work has its own unique style, which belongs to the people who write the articles, take the pictures, or design the graphics and layout of the paper. The works tell two stories, not just one. Pay close attention to who is writing the stories you read and compare one to another, and you will find that not one is totally similar in style to the other. Of course, while the writers and photographers showcase the work to the readers, a lot of work goes unnoticed. From John's managing skills to Creed's layout abilities. However, most importantly, the help from Betty Ann, Barb, and Elizabeth. These three people help keep the staff together, and provide good popcorn as well.

So when you read this paper, do not forget the people behind it. I hope everyone had a great time at Boys State, and truly learned at least one lesson. Thank you and good bye.

Lewis Cabin Shooting Court Trial

The court trial about the recent shooting/murder at Lewis cabin, known as the State of Boys State vs. Aaron Pander, took place on Thursday, June 13. The prosecuting team was trying to prove that the defendant, Aaron Pander, shot and killed the victim even though his life was not in danger, while the defense was trying to prove that the defendant shot and killed the victim out of self-defense.

The prosecuting attorney called three witness to testify in court along with a written testimony from another witness that was not available to be summoned. All of the witnesses' stories were very similar, and all included the very important detail that there was only one gunshot. However, the defense attorney claimed that there were two bullet casings found at the crime scene. Witness 1 said that he had a clear view of the incident and that the victim never made a lunge at the defendant. Witness 2 stated that he saw the defendant shoot the victim and drop the gun before fleeing the scene; and Witness 3 stated that the defendant was in no life threatening danger when he shot the victim.

The prosecutor then introduced a few pieces of evidence, including the firearm that was found at the crime scene, to be admitted to the court. The Lead Investigator was called up to explain and confirm two important pieces of evidence, the gun that was an unusually large caliber which was found 3ft to the right of the victim, and a tent stake found near the victim's feet. The tent stake is important because it comes up in both teams cases for different reasons. The Prosecutor and Police Report believed the tent stake caused the victim to fall away from the defendant, while the Defense claims the victim had the tent stake in his hand and was using it as a weapon.

After the Prosecutor rest his case, the Defense called up the defendant to give his testimony. The defendant, Aaron Pander, admitted that he shot the victim but that it was in self-defense. He claims that the victim was harassing him all night, and when he went to leave the area, the victim continued to follow and harass him. He claims he told the victim multiple times to stop following and harassing him, and warned him he would stop him if he had to. The defendant claimed he saw something in the victims hand and that the victim lunged at him which caused the defendant to fear for his life so he shot the victim. After his testimony, the Defense rest their case.

The jury then went to deliberate, and they deliberated for 15-20 minutes. The jury found the defendant, Aaron Pander, not guilty of any charges because they believed the defendant acted in a state of panic and thought his life was in danger so he was exercising his right to self-defense.

Jeffery Mullins Interview

Julian Brady: So, what inspired you to run for State Senator for the Panhandle Cottage?

Jeffery Mullins: Well there are many things, I wanted to go for something that I enjoyed; which were politics, journalism, and I really do like journalism, but I decided it was a conflict of Interest. I also considered banking because I'm considering going into finances of some sort, whether it be accounting or financial analysis. But I truly do want to make the biggest positive impact as possible, and politics provides a platform to accomplish that. Also, politics for me, is something very enjoyable.

Julian: That's pretty interesting, what sort of policies are you trying to use to make this positive impact?

Jeffery: Oh, what sort of policies? I consider myself a conservative libertarian and I know that only relates much that here. Some of the big things we originally had on the Federalist platform were the opioid crisis, renewable energy, and education reform as well as road upkeep. In terms of the opioid which was a pretty big thing I wanted to hopefully promote some of these measures, and I really did like what they did today. I was going for reform and increased funding for rehabilitation, and I'm not I support for the needle exchange program because that further feeds into their addiction. But they also need a way to find help without being charged.

Julian: That's very in depth. How long have you been working on these?

Jeffery: Most of these policies I've formed from my previous experiences, but I've been able to further develop many of these ideas after these days at Boy's State, particularly through discussing these issues with rambunctious boys from my cottage.

Julian: Thank you for giving us this insight to your campaign. Good luck to you and Godspeed.

Jeffery: My pleasure.

After this Jeffery lost the race for State Senator, but has been appointed to Magistrate.

Welcome to the Talent Show

Guitar playing, saxophone blowing, and singing are some of the talents that will be shown off at the 82nd Boy’s State Talent Show. Cindy and Al Hall are having every participant sign up in the West Virginia building across from the Panhandle Cottage and have been very busy. Having only stood inside for only a few minutes, anyone could tell that very talented people have decided to participate. One singer sang “Evermore” from the 2017 movie; “Beauty and The Beast”. His performance was very thrilling to say the least. Other performers have declined interview.

Alex Hines

Instead of politics, we have a special article today about the broadcasting coordinating official, Alex Hines. Alex has been a news anchor for 9 years. But he didn't start out this way, at first Alex started as a cameraman but built his way up to be a news anchor on T.V.. He joined the staff here at American Legion Boys State 4 years ago. But before this he was able to officially come on to the staff after doing 3 years of news speech. It took some work to get to where he is at, but everyone here at the Journalism department is proud of him all the same. Apart from being a news anchor, he likes to do a wide variety of things in his free time, such as play tabletop games with his friends, going to the weight room to get swole, and the most important thing he does is medieval war reenactments. These war reenactments can take up to 2 weeks in time. They also go to specific locations and camp in a medieval fashion before the wars start. But when he is on the job of anchoring, he says that he enjoys informing people of everything that is going on around them and the fact that he enjoys people in general, not only is he a nerd but he is also a good human being. Thank you to all the staff members who make the ALMBS camp great!

DEVIN PRICE WINS TWENTY-FOUR THOUSAND FOR BOYS STATE IN THE STATE VS THE BANK

Thursday, June 14th, the Supreme Court determines that The Bank owes all athletic, choir, and band participants $450 for each performance, adding up to around $24,000.

Once citizens realized that the manual states that each participant earns $500, not the $50 given, the state decided to take action. Attorney General Devin Price took on Levi Carrney (representing the bank) for one hour and thirty minutes.

Price called Elijah Smith, one of the many Athletic Directors, to the stand. He noted that he is owed $2,500 from the bank, not $500 for this job.

Carrney's case was strong, but once the bank coordinator Cory Robertson went up to the stand, the case started to fall apart. It was determined that the manual was printed before the staff meeting occurred that determined the change. It was Robertson's responsibility to inform members, but he failed to do so.

And with that, The Bank owes roughly $24,000 to multiple citizens of Boys State.

Senator Joe Manchin

June 15, 2019

U.S. Senator Joe Manchin (D-W.Va.) was sworn into the United States Senate on November 15, 2010, to fill the seat left vacant by the late Senator Robert C. Byrd. For Senator Manchin, serving as West Virginia's Senator is truly an honor and a privilege.

Born and raised in the small coal mining town of Farmington, W.V., Sen. Manchin grew up learning the values that all West Virginians share: family, common sense, fairness, and hard work. As a small businessman, he learned firsthand from his grandfather, Papa Joe, an Italian immigrant and the town grocer, the importance of serving the public.

As a young man, his beloved grandmother, Mama Kay, inspired Senator Manchin's belief in public service through her unflagging compassion and desire to help those less fortunate. More than anything, it is his family and the values learned growing up among the hardworking men and women of West Virginia that define who Senator Manchin is and the public servant he strives to be.

From his days as a state legislator to his six years as Governor, to his current role, Senator Manchin has always been committed to his philosophy of "retail government"—in other words, connecting with all of his constituents and making service to them his top priority.

Throughout his public life, he has never let politics or ideology stand in the way of commonsense solutions. Instead, he believes that only by putting politics aside and working hard to bring people together can we do what is right for West Virginia and the nation.

He began his tenure as West Virginia's 34th governor in January 2005. Then, Governor Manchin approved millions of dollars in tax relief for West Virginia's citizens and businesses, fixed the state's workers' compensation system, established the first comprehensive teacher pay package in more than 15 years and dramatically decreased the state's debt. In six years, more than $13 billion in business investments were made, and West Virginia was often cited nationally for its strong fiscal management.

As a Senator, Joe Manchin is committed to bringing this spirit of bipartisanship to Washington. As he done throughout his entire life, he remains committed to working with Republicans and Democrats to find commonsense solutions to the problems our country faces.

Legislatively, job creation is Senator Manchin's top priority, and he believes that government should act as a partner, not an adversary, in helping to create the environment that produces good American jobs. Senator Manchin also firmly believes that our nation can and must do what he did in West Virginia—put our fiscal house in order. He believes we must find commonsense ways to cut spending while keeping our promises to our seniors and veterans by protecting Social Security and Medicare.

Senator Manchin is strongly committed to developing a balanced national energy plan that utilize all of our resources and recognizes that fossil fuels will be a vital part of our energy mix for decades to come. He believes that a balanced, commonsense approach that considers the needs of our environment and the demands of our economy, can and must be developed if we are to achieve energy independence within this generation.

Senator Manchin currently serves on the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, the Senate Select Committee on intelligence, the Senate Committee on Appropriations, and the Senate Committee on Veterans' Affairs—four critical committees that tackle the important work of addressing our nation's energy needs, stand up for our veterans, and oversee discretionary spending and intelligence activities.

Boating Crash At the Mill Pond

On Friday morning, the ALMBS DNR was sent to the Jackson's Mill Pond on reports of a boat crash. At the scene, there was a kayak with alcoholic beverages, and the victim was found on the banks unresponsive. He was without pants and placed onto a stretcher. The witness that called it in stated that he was just walking around with his friends when they noticed the boat resting on the bank. At this time, the most likely cause of the incident is that the boater was intoxicated, passed out and fell out of the boat.

Sports Report Outside of Boys State

The NBA Finals came to a defining conclusion Thursday Night, as the Toronto Raptors defeated the Golden State Warriors in Game Six. The Raptors captured their first title in franchise and Canadian history in a 114-110 victory. The wounded Warriors, who lost team tentpoles Kevin Durant and Klay Thompson (the latter tore his ACL in the early stages of the third quarter), could not save off elimination. The team did not go down without a fight, however, as there were eighteen lead changes featuring a nail-biting back-and-forth classic between the two top NBA teams. After the loss of Thompson, the Warriors could not overcome the consistent pressure of Pascal Siakam and Kyle Lowry who had 22 and 26 points respectively. Even hampered with injury, Klay Thompson in typical Klay Thompson fashion scored a game-high 30 points in defeat.

Supreme Court v. Boys State Bank

It is in the opinion of the court that the American Legion mountaineer Boys State Bank is found guilty of not notifying a change in pay to athletes, chorus, and band members. The bank has to distribute the full $500 to each participant from the beginning of camp, June 9, 2019, to the most recent time of participation, June 13, 2019. Athletes are concluded to be owed $972,000. Chorus are owed $210,000. The band is owed $79,000. The bank must notify all citizens that all athletic, chorus, and band participants, that they will only receive $50 or the set amount they agree upon for the rest of the week. From this point, June 14, 2019, any administrative office or officer that changes a rule, detail, standard, regulations, or information regarding the American Legion Mountaineer Boys State manual of government must publicly announce the change to all parties affected by the ruling.
